

Sirs:

In communication, serving the public interest means "balance" in reporting. Sinclair Broadcasting's intention to obligate their member stations to air an anti-John Kerry documentary a couple of weeks before the general election is a violation of this "balance". This cannot be protested too strongly. Large companies in control of the public airwaves which make decisions such as the above should fully realize that those decisions are subject to risk. And, that risk is: cancellation of license renewal. Thank you.
